

CCA Group Hires Greg Rizzo to Expand Product Offerings

Boston, October 15, 2024 – CCA Group, LLC is pleased to announce the addition of Greg Rizzo, Managing Director, Renewable Energy Solutions to the firm. CCA Group is a leading provider of capital markets and advisory services in the United States’ renewable energy and energy infrastructure markets. CCA is the advisory partner of choice for large corporate companies as they demand simplification of products, unlocking ways to support the growth of clean energy in the US. “Greg’s addition comes at a critical time for CCA Group, as the investor landscape continues to evolve welcoming corporate and industrial clients focused on aligning economic investments and sustainable energy initiatives. Demand is increasing which is driving record levels of clean energy deployment,” said James Stahle, Senior Managing Director.

For more details on Greg, please see the following biography.

Greg M. Rizzo – Managing Director, Renewable Energy Solutions

Greg brings over 12 years of experience originating, structuring and facilitating buy side/sell side renewable energy strategies to the firm. Greg works closely with energy users and project developers to help facilitate customized energy solutions to support the much-needed growth of renewable projects across North America. As demand for renewable energy continues to surge, strategies continue to shift to support the corresponding increase in supply. Greg works with companies to support these evolving strategies to ensure they correspond directly with their needs as well as the needs of project developers. He helps bridge the connection between ESG goals and economic investments for clients looking to make an impact on the renewable industry.

Prior to joining CCA Group, Greg held various commercial roles at Enel Green Power, most recently leading the Commercial Office where he oversaw the successful completion of 75+ renewable energy PPAs all of which varied in size, structure, and location. These contracts supported the addition of over 8 GW of new renewable projects in the US and Canada. Greg has been a vocal member throughout the industry participating in events led by Clean Energy Buyers Association which CCA Group is a member, Smart Energy Decisions, and many other industry focused organizations.

Greg earned his bachelor’s degree in Finance from Stetson University and was a member of the nationally recognized Roland George Investments Program.

About CCA Group

CCA Group, LLC is a privately held firm based in Boston that provides financial advisory services to companies active primarily in the renewable energy and energy infrastructure markets. CCA is a leader in sourcing structured equity, tax equity and debt capital for sponsors active in developing, owning, and operating large utility-scale renewable, clean energy and energy infrastructure projects. CCA has also been a market leader in developing new investor clients seeking tax and non-tax oriented investments in renewable projects to support ESG and other core investment strategies. Learn more at www.ccagp.com.